NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. have just issued a collection of nineteen stories by George R. Sims, under the title "Tinkletop's Crime, and other stories," nearly all of which are of humorous character.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have just ready, the third volume of Sybel's monumental work on "The Founding of the German Empire." This volume is almost wholly occupied with the dramatic events that occurred between 1848, when King Christian of Denmark died, and 1864, when the preliminaries of peace between Denmark and Germany were signed.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready, in the Questions of the Day Series, "The Question of Copyright," a useful compilation already fully described in a previous issue; the second edition, thoroughly revised and extended, of W. Swan Sonnenschein's "The Best Books," a list of the best available books in every department of literature; an interesting and instructive sketch of the life of Charles Darwin in the Leaders of Science Series; and "French Ballads," printed in the original text, edited by T. F. Crane, which forms the 32d volume in their Knickerbocker Nuggets Series.

HARPER & BROS. will publish shortly a new volume by James Lane Allen, entitled "Flute and Violin," and other Kentucky tales and romances. Mr. Allen is a native of Kentucky, having been born on a small farm in the neighborhood of Lexington several years before the war. His great-grandfather was one of the early pioneers of the State, and his family is related to that of Vice-President R. M. Johnson, and also that of Cassius M. Clay. His present home is in Cincinnati. Although he regards his forthcoming volume as the first-fruits of his studies in the art of writing short stories, readers of these stories will find them full of vitality, and by no means deficient in the marks which characterize mature and skilful workmanship.

D. APPLETON & Co. announce for early publication "We All," by Octave Thanet, with many illustrations, a new book in the successful series of Good Books for Young Readers; "Tourmalin's Time Cheques," a new story by F. Anstey, author of "Vice Versa," etc.; "The Maid of Honor," by the Hon. Lewis Wingfield, author of "Lady Grizel;" "From Sunshine to Shadow," a novel, by the Marquis of Lorne; "Consequences," a novel, by Egerton Castle; Baldwin's "Applied Psychology and Art of Teaching;" Herbart's "Psychology;" "A Descriptive Guide-Book to Canada," including full accounts of the opportunities for sportsmen and tourists, by Charles G. D. Roberts, the Canadian poet and litterateur; new and revised editions of Appletons' "Dictionary of New York," "Summer Resorts," and "General Guide to the United States and Canada;" and "North America," volume fifteen of Reclus' great work, "The Earth and Its Inhabitants."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish immediately Mr. Fiske's work on the "American Revolution," in two volumes, which are marked by the same clearness, candor and indescribable charm which belong to Mr. Fiske's other historical works; "Colonel Carter of Cartersville," the remarkable story of a typical Virginian, which has been appearing in the Century; "Fourteen to One," a book of fourteen short stories by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, who is perhaps at the head of American writers of short stories. Her book will include "Jack the Fisherman" and "The Madonna of the Tubs," two stories which have had a very wide popularity. Two other books of short stories for the same date are "Balaam and His Master, and other stories," by Joel Chandler Harris, whom everybody knows and admires as "Uncle Remus;" and "Otto the Knight, and other stories," by Octave Thanet, whose "Knitters in the Sun" is one of the best books of short stories ever published in America. The May volume in the Riverside Paper Series is "A Girl Graduate," by Celia P. Woolley, which is a thoroughly good and readable story.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Ammen, Daniel. The old navy and the new; with an appendix of personal letters from General Grant. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1891. c. 553 p. por. O. cl., $3.

"During the more than half a century covered by this chronicle, so marvellous have been the changes in naval architecture and armament, in the development of means of locomotion both on shore and afloat, and in the establishment of rapid communication over the whole inhabited globe, that the intelligent reader can hardly realize that they have occurred within so brief an historical period of time. A principal object of the memoirs has been to note these mutations in their order, and to present a picture of naval life as affected by them. It has also been the author's intention to make the narrative as impersonal as possible, representative not only of his own experience, but also of that of many other officers, varying from his only in time and circumstances."—Preface.

Bouton, J: Bell. The Enchanted: an authentic account of the strange origin of the new Psychical Club. N. Y., Cassell Publishing Co., [1891.] c. 6+283 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mr. Gustavus Adolphus Swann was an incorporator of the Hailfellows Club of New York. He had been a member for twenty years when he died. Immediately after his death several of his associates were stricken with fear at the sight of Uncle Gus' ghost in the club-rooms. Out of this incident grew a psychical experiment of Meldrum and Wadlow. By their methods they are enabled to witness the literary phenomena which is told in the story, and to their efforts may be traced the origin of a club whose enrolled members are a select few fitted by nature to belong to the "Enchanted."

Brentano, Lujo. The relation of labor to the law of to-day; from the German, by Porter Sherman; with introd. by the translator. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1891. c. 8+305 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Prof. Brentano occupies the chair of political economy in the University of Leipsic. He had exceptional facilities for the study of English trades unions, having spent several years in the country, with free access to the records and archives of the trades unions. The results of this study, some twenty years ago, were embodied in his "Labor guilds of the present," of which this work is an abridgment as to quantity of matter, and an enlargement as to extent of ground covered. The translator says of this work it "contains a powerful discussion, from the points of view of history and political economy, of questions which have stirred, and outside of England are stirring, the nations to revolutionary depths." According to the teachings of the writer, the solution of the labor problem is, "The perfect organization of labor, the resulting necessary labor legislation, and a readiness on the part of employers to comply with this; that is, the legal establishment of arbitration, or rather the establishment of legal arbitration."

Cæsar, Caius Julius. Eight books of Cæsar's Gallic war; ed. by W: Rainey Harper and Herbert Cushing Tolman. N. Y., American Book Co., [1891.] c. 8+502 p. D. hf. leath., $1.20.

The Latin text of the eight books of the Gallic war is preceded by a general introduction, including a life of Cæsar, a history of Gaul, Germany and Britain, and a sketch of the method of Roman warfare, and followed by a bibliography, a list of idioms, word lists, notes, exercises in Latin composition, classification of words, a general vocabulary, a special vocabulary to Book VIII., a geographical index and index of proper names.

Caillard, Emma Marie. Electricity; the science of the nineteenth century; a sketch for general readers. N. Y., Appleton, 1891. 10+310 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Gives such an outline of modern electrical science as may be readily understood by readers who have no previous acquaintance with the subject, and who, though unable to make a serious study of it, wish to acquire sufficient knowledge to enable them to follow with intelligent interest the rapid progress which is being made in this field. In 4 parts: Static electricity or electricity at rest; Magnetism; Current electricity, and Practical appliances of electricity.

Crane, T. F., ed. Chansons populaires de la France: a selection from French popular ballads; ed., with introd. and notes, by T. F. Crane. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1891.] c. 39+282 p. il. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets, no. 32.) hf. cl., $1.50.

This collection was made for the general reader who is acquainted with French. All ballads are omitted in dialect or patois, as well as those whose freedom of tone relegates them to collections intended only for the scholar. As the editor's intention has been primarily to furnish a companion volume to the English and Spanish ballads in this series, he has restricted his choice mainly to narrative poems containing more or less of a story.

Dale, Mrs. —. Fair and false. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1891.] 282 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1806.) pap., 20 c.

Darwin, C. Geological observations on the volcanic islands and parts of South America visited during the voyage of H. M. S. Beagle. 3d ed. N. Y., Appleton, 1891. 13+648 p. maps, il. D. cl., $2.

Delitzsch, Franz, D.D. Biblical commentary on the prophecies of Isaiah; authorized tr. from the 3d ed. by Rev. Ja. Denney. In 2 v. V. 1. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, [1891.] 8+520 p. O. (Foreign Biblical lib.) cl., $2.50.

The clergyman and theological student will find in this commentary a work of surpassing interest. Isaiah has been called the Evangelical Prophet of the Old Testament, because of his many references to the Messiah, descriptions of His birth and death, etc. Therefore the book of Isaiah has always been one of the great points of controversy between the Christian and the non-Christian. The Christian minister must preach from Isaiah, must often go to Isaiah for the most brilliant prophetic utterances attesting to the truth of the religion of Jesus of Nazareth. The work of Delitzsch is scholarly, exhaustive, profound and reverent.

Dumas, Alex., (fils.) The Clémenceau case; (Memoire de la accuse); from the French, by W. L. Marshall. Phil., Crawford & Co., 47 N. 9th St., [1891.] c. tr. 219 p. D. pap., 50 c.

Evans, Llewelyn J., and Smith, H. Preserved. Biblical scholarship and inspiration: two papers. Cin., O., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1891. c. 126 p. O. pap., 50 c.

These addresses were prepared in view of the current attack on higher criticism and Biblical theology. The authors (professors of Biblical literature) suppose this attack to be based largely on misconceptions as to the nature of the higher criticism on the one hand, and as to the definition of Biblical inspiration on the other. The aim of the addresses is to call attention to the nature of the facts and arguments with which Biblical study must deal.

Eye and ear memory. N. Y., Ja. P. Downes, 243 Broadway, [1891.] c. 110 p. D. (The memory and thought ser., v. 1, no. 3.) pap., $1.

Includes chapters on eye memory and ear memory. Rev. Jesse L. Hurlbut, D.D., tells of his remarkable success with the "accretive method" set forth in the series of which this monograph forms part. Joseph Singer contributes the concluding chapter on memorizing music. A practical and suggestive number.

Fawcett, Edgar. A New York family: a novel; il. by T. Nast and others. N. Y., Cassell Publishing Co., [1891.] c. 5+277 p. D. cl., $1.

Fritz Eberhard, a German, began his career in America as a Hoboken grocer. Prosperity attended him, and he married Mary Smith, the daughter of a New York restaurant-keeper. Fritz soon Anglicized his name, and was known to the public as Frederick Everard. He then moved to New York, took a partner and set up the establishment of Everard & Flagler. The novel deals with the success and failures of the Everard family. The scenes are in well-known New York localities. The action is divided between the Everards and members of the Tweed ring. Some of Tweed's exploits are introduced. The personality of Tweed, Sweeney and others of the ring is described. Many of the characters are real personages, and the illustrations are in a number of instances actual portraits.

Fewkes, J. Walter, ed. A journal of American ethnology and archaeology. V. 1. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1891. 4+133 p. il. maps, O. pap., $2; cl., $2.50.

This journal is one of the fruits of the Hemenway Archaeological Expedition, and includes (1) A few summer ceremonials at Zuni Pueblo, by Prof. Fewkes, describing the rain dances and other semi-religious ceremonies of the Zunis, such as foot-races, rabbit-hunts, planting of prayer-plumes, and communal burning of pottery; (2) Zuni melodies, by Mr. B. Ives Gilman; and, (3) An archaeological reconnaissance of ruins in or near the Zuni reservation.

A pioneer story of Southern Illinois, possessing a historical value of a period that is full of interest. Written in dialect. The events are those mostly of the every-day life of a pioneer.

Funny fellows' grab-bag; or, mirth for the million. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1891.] c. unp. il. Q. (Sunnyside ser., no. 23.) pap., 25 c.

Funny pictures and stories.

Gardiner, S. Rawson. A student's history of England; from the earliest times to 1885. In 3 v. V. 3. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1891. il. 8°, cl., $1.20.

Gillett, Omer T., M.D. How I became a sailor, and other sketches. Cin., O., Cranston & Stowe, 1891. c. 223 p. D. cl., 75 c.

The greater part of the book is taken up with the events that led to Grandpa Trumbull's appointment, when a youth, as midshipman in the United States navy, and a description of his cruises on the war-ships Fulton and Lexington. There are two other short sketches, "Vera" and "He gave his life for others."

"Vera" tells how a little cripple made a livelihood and benefited her young associates. "He gave his life for others" is a story of self-sacrifice.

Gladden, Washington, D.D. Who wrote the Bible? A book for the people. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1891. c. 3+381 p. S. cl., $1.25.

"The aim of this volume," the author says, "is to put into compact and popular form, for the benefit of intelligent readers, the principal facts upon which scholars are now generally agreed concerning the literary history of the Bible. The doctrines taught in the Bible will not be discussed. Its claims to a supernatural origin will not be the principal matter of inquiry. The book will concern itself chiefly with those purely natural and human agencies which have been employed in writing, transcribing, editing, preserving, transmitting, translating and publishing the Bible."

Holding, Carlisle B. The little corporal; or, for one hundred days. Cin., O., Cranston & Stowe, 1891. c. 357 p. S. cl., 90 c.

Babbitt Carl, of Illinois, enlisted in 1864, at fifteen years of age, in response to Abraham Lincoln's call for volunteers to serve one hundred days. He was named by his captain for the fifth corporalship, and because of extreme youth and size was called by the entire regiment "The little corporal." The story gives a picture of a Federal soldier's life in camp, and tells the individual experiences of Theodore, Jakey and Carl in the War of the Rebellion.

Lowell, Percival. Noto: an unexplored corner of Japan. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1891. c. 4+261 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This is not a repetition or variation of what has already been told of Japan by others. Mr. Lowell was fortunate in visiting a region as yet almost unknown by travellers, and his book is a fresh and engaging description of the country, and of all that it contains of interest.

McAllister, Ward. Society as I have found it. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1891.] c. '90. 2+381 p. por. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 68.) pap., 50 c.

McCarty, L. P. Health, happiness and longevity; health without medicine, happiness without money; the result, longevity. San Francisco, Cal., Carson & Co., [1891.] 167 p. S. pap., 50 c.; leatherette, 75 c.

The author of the "Annual statistician and economist" was for many years an apparently hopelessly sick man. He gave up the doctors and cured himself, so he says, not only of consumption, but of some half dozen other afflictions. His experience is embodied in this little book with a great deal of common-sense advice which will benefit every one to know, regarding the care of the body, etc., etc.

O'Connor, T. P. The Parnell movement; being the history of the Irish question from the death of O'Connell to the present time; with a sketch of the author by T. Nelson Page. N. Y., Cassell Publishing Co., [1891.] c. 7+370 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author is a noted Irish journalist and a famous leader in the English parliament of the Irish party. He was eminently fitted to write a book of the Parnell movement, as he has both watched it and taken part in it from its inception. This work is considered so dispassionate as to have been used both by the Liberals and the Parnellites as a campaign text-book in two successive campaigns. Beginning with the fall of the great O'Connell and an account of the Irish famine, the various events of the movement are noted down to the present time—this being the latest edition of the work. O'Connor is the author also of "Gladstone's House of Commons" and "The life of Lord Beaconsfield."

Sihler, E. G. A complete lexicon of the Latinity of Cæsar's Gallic war. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1891. c. 4+188 p. O. hf. leath., $1.60.

The present work was undertaken at the suggestion of Prof. H. Drisler. Its preparation and elaboration have occupied all the author's available time for more than three years. The lexicon is confined to the seven commentaries of Cæsar's undoubted authorship, excluding the supplement of Hirtius. It aims to furnish an exhaustive vocabulary and usus loquendi, along with the greatest possible compactness.

Smart, Hawley. Pride of the paddock. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1891.] 118 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1784.) n. p.

Sonnenschein, W. Swan. The best books: a readers' guide to the choice of the best available books (about 50,000), in every department of science, art and literature, down to 1890; with the dates of the first and last editions and the price, size and publisher's name of each book; a contribution towards systematic bibliography. 2d ed., with complete indexes. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1891. 1100 p. 4°, cl., net, $9; interleaved, net, $13.50.

The specialist as well as the "general reader," for whom this interesting bibliography was prepared, will find in it a volume of great usefulness and value. It is a most excellent general catalogue of books of permanent value on all subjects. The plan has been to group the books firstly into large classes, then into sections, subsections and paragraphs—with the result of obtaining all the literature of one subject in one list, and that of outlying subjects close at hand. Cross-references have been freely employed, while the author, title and subject indexes added to this edition make reference extremely easy. Mr. Sonnenschein states that there are twice as many books in this new edition as in the first (about 50,000 against 25,000), and a large number of new characterizations of books and bibliographical and other notes have been added—to former as well as fresh entries. The compiler has avoided confusing the seeker after information, by not including any very large number of books in each section, recording only such as are "best," the term being used in the most catholic sense. Its scope is further limited to books in print and obtainable in the ordinary course of trade.

Stevens, J. W. Leather manufacture: a treatise on the practical workings of the leather manufacture; incl. oil, shoe grain, imitation goat and calf, bright oil, straight grain, English and American boot grain, etc., with many valuable receipts. Milwaukeee, Wis., C. A. Rohde Co., 1890 [1891.] c. '89. 240 p. il. 8°, cl., $5.

Story, W: Wetmore. Excursions in art and letters. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1891. c. 3+295 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Contains the following essays: Michelangelo; Phidias, and the Elgin marbles; The art of casting in plaster among the ancient Greeks and Romans; A conversation with Marcus Aurelius; Distortions of the English stage as instanced in "Macbeth."

Swan, Annie S., [Mrs. Burnett-Smith.] St. Veda's; or, the Pearl of Orr's Haven. Cin., O., Cranston & Stow, [1891.] 319 p. por. il. D. cl., 90 c.

Annie Erskine was called the Pearl of Orr's Haven because she was washed ashore from the Cornelian, which was wrecked in the Haven. Some fisherfolks, named Erskine, adopted her, and until she was 20 years old she supposed herself to be their daughter. The story tells how the knowledge that she was not, affected her; the romantic history of Annie's parents; her love for Sir Archibald Grant; how Janet Erskine's actions changed the tenor of her life, and how she came into the inheritance at St. Vedas.

Swayne, W. W. An inquiry into the nature of our Lord's knowledge as man; with a preface by the Bishop of Salisbury. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1891. 96 p. 8°, cl., 75 c.

Taylor, W: Stitt. Man immortal: an allegorical poem. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1891. c. 277 p. por. O. cl., $2.

The author discusses his lofty theme by means of a series of colloquies between Immortality and Nature, Time, Death, the Grave, Hell and Man respectively. The style is dignified and elevated, in harmony with the nature of the subject, and the poem is ennobling and inspiring.

Wright, G. F:, D.D. Charles Grandison Finney. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1891. c. 5+329 p. D. (American religious leaders, no. 5.) cl., $1.25.

A professor of Oberlin, wholly in sympathy with Prof. Finney's theological and denominational convictions, was justly chosen by the editor of this series to delineate the career of the great teacher and evangelist. Chapters are devoted to his conversion and theological preparation, his early revival labors, the New Lebanon convention, subsequent evangelistic labors, removal to Oberlin, his personal characteristics, his place as an educator, and as theologian and philosopher.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Bardwell, Blackmer & Co., publishers of subscription books, have dissolved partnership.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Neely Bros., booksellers and stationers, have been burned out.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The M. H. Kauffman Medical Publishing Company has been incorporated to publish physicians' and druggists' books and manufacture stationery. The capital stock is $50,000; incorporators, W. Bodeman, M. H. Kauffman and W. A. Dyche.

CINCINNATI, O.—Alfred Warren, bookseller and stationer, wishes the trade to know that he has moved back to his old location, No. 217 Central Avenue, now occupied by "The Alfred Warren Company," of which he is President.

COLD SPRINGS, MINN.—Straus & Schneider, dealers in books and stationery, have dissolved partnership.

COLUMBIA CITY, IND.—G. M. Nabur, bookseller, has sold out.

COLUMBUS, O.—Geo. S. Cadwallader, bookseller and stationer, has made an assignment.

DETROIT, MICH.—J. McLogan & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved.

FAIRFIELD, ILL.—Patterson & Morris, dealers in books and stationery, have gone out of business.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN.—Wm. Coughlan, bookseller and stationer, has gone out of business.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—H. D. Parsons, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

MADISON, S. D.—McCormick & Noblett, book sellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

OAKLAND, CAL.—H. G. Webster has sold out his interest in the stationery and book business of J. L. Champlin & Co.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Fire on the 26th completely destroyed the five-story building Nos. 728 and 730 Cherry Street, occupied by J. R. Jones & Co., who conducted an extensive subscription-book publishing business, under the title of the National Publishing Company. The loss is estimated at $200,000, from one-third to one-half of which is covered by insurance. The fire originated in the basement from some unknown cause, and quickly destroyed the building, on the top floor of which 100 tons of paper were stored.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—W. H. Hartley, 52 N. 5th St., executor for the estate of Thomas W. Hartley & Co., having filed his account of the estate, notifies all persons having claims that the account will be audited this month (May).

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—The firm of Duncan M. McAllister & Co., of Salt Lake City, is now incorporated, and will hereafter be known as the "Utah Book and Stationery Company."

SEATTLE, WASH.—The Seattle Book Company has sold out.

SPOKANE FALLS, WASH.—J. H. Mull has gone out of the book business.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 2, 1891.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PUBLISHERS' RISK AND IMPRINT.

WE took occasion recently to differ with the editor of The Author, who persists in holding the opinion that no book need be published at a loss. On the occasion referred to we presented estimates to prove our position: that publishers not only run a risk, but very often meet with loss. It will perhaps add weight to what we have already said to quote proof from another source. In a volume recently published, under the title of "The Publisher and His Friends," is a letter written October 25, 1831, by John Murray, the publisher, to Washington Irving, from which we make the following extract: "The publication of 'Columbus' cost me, paper, printing, advertising, and author, £5700; and it has produced but £4700. 'Granada' cost £3073, and its sale has produced but £1830, making me a gross loss of £2250." The first point to note in this letter is, that though the publisher's gross loss amounted to £2250, the author was not called upon to share any of this loss; and the second point is, that this loss was incurred by the publisher in the publication of the works of an author of established reputation. We are quite confident, were the editor of The Author generous enough to give the publishers a fair hearing, many such risks as the one quoted above could be put in evidence by publishers on both sides of the Atlantic.

The following quotation from a recent issue of The Author should not be overlooked, not because of the weight which it would carry with an author who has gained popularity, but because of the possibility of its misleading the author who has yet a reputation to make: "Fortunately" (says The Author) "the public cares nothing about who publishes a book; it is concerned solely with the contents. Plenty of men—hundreds and thousands of men—are willing and anxious to step into any trade in which they can make money." Does the editor of The Author mean to assert that the reputation of an honorable and upright publisher carries no weight in introducing to the public the author, or in increasing the sales of his book? The publisher's imprint which it has cost time, money and expenditures in many ways to establish, must to a certain extent influence at least the sales of a book among the constituency that that trade has founded. Otherwise a drygoods house could as successfully issue a book, or the author himself. In the latter case, however, failure has almost invariably overtaken him. Let the public as well as the author consider that publishers of wholesome literature are doing a service for education as well as morality, at a cost and risk that involves not only their capital and their living, but that their recompense in the majority of cases is at least but a comfortable competency. That as a class they are just in their dealings and upright in their business transactions is, we think, beyond question; and because some of "those hundreds and thousands of men who are willing to step into any trade to make money" have brought disgrace upon the profession, the profession as a class should not be open to continual assault and unjust criticism.

DUTY ON REBOUND BOOKS.

THE United States Treasury Department and the Board of General Appraisers each have made a decision relative to old books that have been sent to a foreign country for rebinding. General Spaulding, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury, claims the books should be entered free, while the General Appraisers say they were subject to duty.

Should the contention of the Board of General Appraisers be upheld by court it is believed that a great deal of dissatisfaction will arise among those who are making a collection of fine bindings. Under the old law all foreign books published twenty years or more prior to their importation were allowed to enter free.

A great many old books are frequently sent to Paris and England for rebinding, and it has been customary to allow them to come in without the payment of duty. The Board of General Appraisers now decides that the new tariff bill changes all this, and that if a book is sent to a foreign country to be rebound a duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem must be paid before the book can be delivered. Thus a book may have been brought here fifty or sixty years ago, or longer, but if the owner decides to send it to a foreign country for rebinding he will have to pay the duty on the whole book, for which, if it valued $500, a duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem will be collected.

The decision of the general board was rendered at the request of the Collector of Customs of New York, and is as follows:

"The appellants contended that the books having been printed and once bound more than twenty years since, were brought within the provisions of the free list of the existing law, which is as follows: Books, engravings, photographs, bound or unbound etchings, maps and charts, which shall have been printed and bound or manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation, are on the free list, and could not afterward be excluded by a rebinding, which is in the nature of repairs."

The Board of General Appraisers contend:

"It will not be denied that the term binding includes rebinding, and it will seem from the whole paragraph that Congress intended that such books only should be entitled to free entry as are substantially in the same condition they were twenty years prior to importation.

"The word 'bound' is new matter added by the act of October 1, 1890, to previous legislation, and we cannot give effect to this additional language unless we find that Congress meant to embrace by it the entire condition in which books should be admitted to free entry.

"The appellants made an effort to pay duty on the cost of rebinding, which they had ascertained, but no provision exists therefor.

"We hold, therefore, that books entitled to free entry must be both printed and bound more than twenty years prior to importation, and that such binding includes rebinding where the same is entire, as in the present cases."

CONTENTION IN REBUTTAL.

General O. C. Spaulding, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury, contends that the act of 1890 does not differ from the act of March 1883, as far as it relates to books which have been recently bound but have been actually printed and published more than twenty years are exempt from duty, notwithstanding the fact that they have been rebound and repaired within that period. And the Collectors will be justified in admitting them free.

"FORTY YEARS AMONG THE OLD BOOK-SELLERS OF PHILADELPHIA."

UNDER the above title W. Brotherhead, the well-known antiquarian bookseller of Philadelphia, has published a little book which we recommend to all who have the slightest interest in the trade.

Mr. Brotherhead began selling old books in 1849 at the northwest corner of Sixth and Market Streets. His stock was worth about $60. As he had more shelf-room than books and as he, like nature, couldn't bear a vacuum, he added cigars to his stock and filled the empty shelves with cigar-boxes. These in a short time he took down, and in their place covered the empty shelves with Catlin's portraits of Indians. These being highly colored, made a good show.

He bought his books chiefly at auction—then carried on by G. W. Lord, at the southeast corner of Sixth and Decatur Streets. The old book trade was essentially different from that of today. American books were not so plentiful, and the English sales chiefly supplied the wants of the dealers in old books. Lumley, of London, sent over large invoices of miscellaneous books, most of them the trash of the London auction-houses. Mr. Brotherhead remembers seeing Lumley buying thousands of volumes at a time for the American market. Willis & Sotheran also supplied Philadelphia dealers with books, which, however, were of the best quality.

Americana, or books on America, were not much in demand forty years ago. In 1850 Mr. Brotherhead began importing English books, those that were rare and curious, among them many curious books on America. At that time there were but four men actively engaged in collecting Americana—E. D. Ingraham, the eccentric and witty bibliophile, Jabez Fisher, R. C. Davis and John McAllister, all dead now, we believe.

After importing for four years, Mr. Brotherhead found the mania for collecting books on America was gradually increasing. He instructed his agents to collect everything they could find either in books, engravings or autographs. The Americana fever, in fact, grew miraculously. Ingraham died; his collection of books, comprising over 17,000 volumes, was sold at auction. Every nook and corner of Ingraham's house had been packed with books. Among his books were quite a number that were claimed by different persons, owing to an idiosyncrasy of Ingraham's, namely, to make "forced loans" when he could not obtain a book in any other way. His penchant was first to buy—if the persons would not sell, he would borrow and never return, for the book he must have at any cost, even at the risk of his honor. The Ingraham sale gave the first serious impetus to the mania for collecting books on America; Philadelphia being then the principal source of supply, Menzies, Bailey, Myers, John Munroe and John Allen among the most enthusiastic collectors.

In January, 1857, Mr. Brotherhead commenced the publication of American Notes and Queries, the first American magazine devoted to this subject. He issued only four numbers—500 copies each, which are now very scarce—the support for such a journal being then as scant as it is to-day.

At that time Philadelphia, with its 300,000 inhabitants, had a greater number and more active old booksellers than it now has, with a population of over a million. In the 50's Philadelphia had fifteen well-appointed antiquarian bookshops doing a good business; to-day there are not more than twelve that are worth mentioning.

In 1859, Mr. Brotherhead conceived the idea of making a book containing fac-simile letters of each signer of the Declaration of Independence, and other matters pertaining to them. This he accomplished, and in 1860 published it. He had a number of subscribers—several from the South. Dr. Gibbs, a well-known writer and historian, was a subscriber; in 1860, when the late rebellion was in its first throes, when South Carolina became hotly belligerent, when she first organized her rebellious forces, when everything was red hot, Dr. Gibbs paid a last visit to his old friend, Dr. Samuel Jackson, in Philadelphia. He also called on Mr. Brotherhead and paid for his copy, adding that "it would be the last money he would pay as a citizen of the United States." He lived to see his mistake. As a mark of his worth the Rebel Government made him Surgeon-in-Chief of the Confederate Army. He is now dead.

Another singular circumstance of the late war occurred: One of his subscribers from Norfolk, Virginia, a well-known book-collector, a minister of the Protestant Episcopal Church, desired him to send his copy by express, C. O. D. This was done, and the money sent by express—it was all in five-cent pieces—with a note stating he was sorry to send such small money, but war was afloat everywhere, and Virginia would soon be out of the Union.

As a mark of respect to Queen Victoria, Mr. Brotherhead had a folio copy of his book sent to her through the United States Minister at the Court of St. James, G. M. Dallas, formerly Vice-President of the United States, and of this city. When the courtly and highly-talented Minister returned to this city from England, he brought Mr. Brotherhead a letter of thanks from Lord John Russell, who was then Home Secretary.

In 1860 he commenced a circulating library at 218 South Eighth Street. From the large stock of old books which he had, he selected the nucleus of his library, and added to it the new books as they were issued. He still continued buying and selling old books, while the patrons to his library daily increased. The success of his library caused him to pay more attention to it than to old-book selling, and this business of the library was his chief care. The lease of the store at 218 South Eighth Street ended in 1863, and at that time, when the war absorbed every person and every action, he found it difficult to rent a suitable place. He, however, rented 911 Locust Street, and added such alterations as he deemed necessary.

In 1867 he bought the property No. 205 South Thirteenth Street. He pulled the old building down and erected a new house, and made the first story for his library, and to it he moved in November, 1867. He still continued old-book buying and selling, and used the basement of his house for that purpose. At this time he had 50,000 volumes in his library, which in number of volumes and first-class literature had not, at that time, its equal in the United States as a circulating library.

In addition to his library in Philadelphia, he opened branches in Pottsville, Wilkesbarre, Washington, D. C., Elkton, Md., and Dover, Del. These were all in existence for years, until the persons with whom he had made arrangements either died or changed their business.

About 1877 commenced the issue of cheap literature; the Lakeside Library was commenced in Chicago; the Seaside followed, with numerous other issues that affected all libraries like Mr. Brotherhead's.

In 1878 he met with a serious accident by falling on the ice, and injured his spine. For several months he was seriously sick under Dr. Brinton's care—at least he advised him to go to Europe, as his nervous condition was so shattered by the fall. He sold out his business, first at private sale, and afterwards at auction. He spent most 1878 and 1879 in England, and felt somewhat better, but it took five years before he fully recovered his health.

In 1875, when the Centennial was the talk of the day, and everything was in active preparation for the next year, 1876, he decided to issue a second series of his "Book of the Signers." This second series was supplementary to the matter in his first book, the fac-simile letters being new, and the historical matter new and more complete. His loss in money on this enterprise, exclusive of labor and time, amounted to over $5000. This harassed him peculiarly so that he never fully recovered from it.

"All this patriotic devotion and irksome labor," to quote Mr. Brotherhead, "elicited only plain, bald sympathy, but not a particle of material aid. I still live comfortably and humbly, and though I cannot boast of my thousands of dollars, yet my books will live as long as the Republic exists—nay, they can never die while an historical scholar lives or our grand libraries exist. This is poor consolation in a money point of view, but the poor scholar looks to a brighter future not tinged with the dross of gold."

After his return from England in 1879, he again got quietly into business with about 1000 volumes of old books. He chiefly sold to booksellers in different parts of the country by catalogue and otherwise; but his health being gradually restored, he opened his present bookstore, 1440 South Street, with a very limited stock. Though now in his 67th year, Mr. Brotherhead claims that he still feels vigorous, and hopes to die in harness.

In his little book he sketches a few of his contemporaries in the old-book business, thus partially filling up gaps in the history of the trade that some future historian may find useful.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE new Lord Houghton is a poet, it appears. He is about to publish a volume entitled "Stray Verses."

AMELIA E. BARR'S "Woven of Love and Glory," published by J. Clark & Co., London, is the same as her "Remember the Alamo," published by Dodd, Mead & Co.

LADY DUFFERIN will follow up her recent volume on her life with Lord Dufferin in London with one on their life in Canada, when Lord Dufferin was Governor-General. It will be entitled "My Canadian Journey, 1872 and 1873."

MRS. GRANT has concluded that she will not, for the present at least, publish the "Reminiscences of Gen. Grant," upon which she has been working for some time past. She will complete her work as a record to be kept by her children, and a mass of material which would in any event have been withheld, had her manuscript been printed, has been added to the written chapters, and the whole matter will be turned over to one of the sons for safe keeping. According to E. W. Bok all of Gen. Grant's love-letters and the most valuable comments on the war are embodied in the manuscript. Mrs. Grant will impose no restriction upon her children as to the disposition of the material after her death, but while she lives it is settled that the public will not have her "Reminiscences."

PICK-UPS.

BARRING BOOK-AGENTS.—Miss Tence: I like to meet a man with a history.—Mr. Fence: So do I—provided he doesn't have it for sale.—Puck.

NEPHEWS AND NIECES.—The Professor: Did you ever read that romantic old novel "The Children of the Abbey?"—Miss Ingénue: Why, I didn't know an Abbé ever had children!—Puck.

OBITUARY.

FREDERICK W. CHRISTERN.

By the death of Frederick W. Christern, at his home at 420 West 20th Street, New York City, the foreign book trade in the United States loses its oldest and perhaps most honored member.

Mr. Christern was born at Lauenburg in 1816, at that time a Danish possession, now an independent Dukedom under the dominion of Prince Bismarck. In his fifteenth year he was apprenticed to the firm of Herold & Wahlstab, in that day the leading publishers and booksellers of Lüneburg, Germany. Here he remained until 1836, when he entered the employ of a brother of Mr. Herold, at that time the leading retail bookseller in Hamburg. According to the custom of his day, that all journeymen should visit the principal centres of their special trades, Mr. Christern travelled through many cities, serving a longer or shorter time with many firms of note, and at one time being employed in Warsaw, Poland. In 1850 he was employed in Munich, Germany, waiting for an opening to establish a business of his own. In that day only a certain number of firms were permitted within a given city, and the chance waited for seemed most uncertain. At the suggestion of Rudolph Garrigue, now President of the Germania Fire Insurance Company of New York City, Mr. Christern came to America and began his career in this country in Philadelphia, then the centre of the book trade. He entered the employ of John Weick, and after a time established himself independently. In 1853 he came to New York to take charge of the retail department of the business of Rudolph Garrigue, who was then an importer and retailer of foreign books and also engaged upon the reproduction in this country of Brockhaus' "Iconographic Encyclopædia," with English text. They formed a partnership under the name of Garrigue & Christern, and did business for a time in the Astor House. After meeting with irreparable loss through fire, Mr. Garrigue decided to abandon the book trade and Mr. Christern established himself as retailer of foreign books at 763 Broadway. From that time until his death, Mr. Christern was a representative figure in his branch of the book trade, and the various locations of his store have kept pace with the northward development of the city. He moved to 763 Broadway in 1856; ten years later to 863 Broadway; then to 77 University Place; later to 37 West 23d Street, and finally to 254 Fifth Avenue, the present location of his well-known store. Mr. Christern has always conducted his business on a consistent conservative plan, and has held a leading position among his colleagues as a man of strictest integrity and enthusiastic loyalty to principle, often at most inconvenient pecuniary loss.

The present plan is to continue the business, but the details of management have not yet been settled.

Mr. Christern remained wholly German throughout his American career, and was always a leader in all schemes and charities to promote German interests in his adopted country.

He was an active member of almost every German organization of social or charitable importance in this city, and his loss will be distinctly felt throughout a large circle. At the time of his death he was a trustee of the German Hospital, a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Historical Society, the New York Geographical Society, and many other organizations. His store has for many years been the rendez-vous of almost all scientific and literary men visiting this country, who almost invariably brought letters of introduction to Mr. F. W. Christern.

Mr. Christern leaves a widow and two daughters.

ROBERT G. WYNKOOP.

ROBERT G. WYNKOOP, one of the oldest, best known and widely respected booksellers of New York State, died at his residence in Syracuse, on the morning of April 17, aged 75 years.

Mr. Wynkoop was born at Catskill, N. Y., in 1816. He prepared for a college course at Kinderhook Academy, but he resolved upon a business career, and went into the book trade at Hudson in 1836. From that city he removed to Auburn in 1842, and there continued the book business. In 1848 he went to Syracuse, where he has since remained. The firm of Wynkoop Brothers, booksellers, consisting of R. G. and J. G. Wynkoop, was organized on their taking up their residence in Syracuse, and continued for twenty-three years, when, in 1871, J. G. Wynkoop retired, and since then the firm has been R. G. Wynkoop & Co., Mr. J. S. Wynkoop being his father's partner.

Mr. Wynkoop's life has been that of an active business man and public-spirited citizen. He has been prominent and influential in many relations, and has enjoyed the confidence and respect of the community. He was for years first Vice-President of the Onondaga County Savings Bank, a Director in the Trust and Deposit Company and the New York State Banking Company, a Trustee in the Onondaga County Orphan Asylum, the Old Ladies' Home and the Oakwood Cemetery Association.

As a man and citizen he was able, faithful and influential—always doing his part well and willingly. His friendly, generous greeting and his warm friendship were characteristics that will be missed by the many persons with whom and himself close attachments existed.

In 1835 he married Miss Caroline C. Wood of Auburn, who died in 1870. He leaves three children, two sons, James S. and Robert G., Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Redfield.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER, of Charles L. Webster & Co., died at his home in Fredonia, N. Y., April 26.

He was a civil engineer by profession, and for some time previous to 1884 he was associated with Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain") in the engraving business. In 1884 Mr. Clemens and Mr. Webster, who are related by marriage, Mr. Webster having married Anna Moffitt, a niece of "Mark Twain," formed the publishing house of C. L. Webster & Co., Mr. Webster also acting at that time as agent for J. R. Osgood & Co. The first book put out by the firm was Mr. Clemens' "Huckleberry Finn." The next publication was "General Grant's Memoirs," which brought Mr. Webster prominently before the public as a publisher. The memoirs were followed in 1886, by the "McClellan Memoirs," and shortly afterward the "Life of Pope Leo XIII." appeared.

In 1887 Mr. Webster visited Pope Leo, who conferred upon him the title of Chevalier of the Order of Pius IX. About three years ago Mr. Webster's health became so impaired through frequent and severe attacks of neuralgia that his physician advised his retirement from all active business. This advice Mr. Webster followed, and after travelling in Europe, returned with his wife and his children to Fredonia. His place in the firm was taken by F. J. Hall, who had been connected with the house ever since it was established, and who is now sole partner with Mr. Clemens.

BOOKS FOR PRINTERS.

A. HARTLEBEN, of Vienna and Leipzig, has just published two works of considerable interest to printers and publishers. One is entitled "Die Erfindung der Buchdruckerkunst," and deals with the discovery of printing. It has been written by Prof. Karl Faulmann, well known as the author of an illustrated "History of Printing," which was accorded a medal at the recent International Printing Exhibition in Vienna. The book is a handsome octavo volume with thirty-six illustrations, and a genealogical table of the Gansfleisch-Gutenberg family. The second publication referred to is "Das Buch," a technological and practical introduction to the art of writing books. This work, which is by Herr J. H. Wehle, has already reached a second edition.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

I. H. BROWN & Co., St. Louis, Mo., will publish early in June a series of "Popular Dialogues," each of which will be sold at ten cents.

A NUMBER of publishers have presented Mr. R. U. Johnson with a loving-cup of solid silver, in token of their appreciation of his work for International Copyright.

PROFESSOR F. M. TAYLOR, of Michigan University, will shortly publish, in the Proceedings of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, an article on "Natural Law."

WM. CUSHING, 19 Ware St., Cambridge, Mass., has been employed during the last year in collecting brief biographical notices of Harvard graduates, which he hopes soon to publish under the title "Harvard Graduates Before 1860."

JOHN WILEY & SONS have in preparation a work on "Car Lubrication," by W. E. Hall, of the Penn. R. R.; "The Mechanical Engineer's Pocket-Book," by Wm. Kent, M.E.; also "The Transitive Curve Field Book," by Clinton R. Howard, C.E.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. have in press a reprint, with notes by Lyman C. Draper, of Withers' "Chronicles of Border Warfare," first published in Clarksburg, Va., in 1831; and Venable's "Beginnings of Literary Culture in the Ohio Valley."

THE SALEM PRESS PUBLISHING AND PRINTING Co., Salem, Mass., will publish in June, "Salem Witchcraft in Outline," by Caroline E. Upham, a niece of Dr. O. W. Holmes. In August they will publish "Historic Storms," by Sidney Perley; an interesting account of the great storms, cold winters, hot summers, etc., from 1620 to the present.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, have published eight of twenty-five monthly parts of a subscription-book entitled "The American Continent and its Inhabitants Before Its Discovery by Columbus," by Annie Cole Cady, with illustrations by Henry N. Cady and others. The narrative is addressed to a group of boys and girls, and begins with the formation of the earth.

*MACMILLAN & Co. will publish in the fall Lockwood Kipling's book, "Beast and Man in India." Lockwood Kipling (the father of Rudyard) writes from long personal experience of India. His work contains much valuable information concerning cattle raising, elephants, and the relations of the beast and bird-world generally to the people, and is profusely illustrated.

THE first volume of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science will be shortly completed by the publication of the second part of Professor Meitzen's great work on Statistics. All statisticians and all persons interested in statistics will be glad to learn of this great addition to our English literature on this subject. Dr. Falkner's name as translator is a guarantee of a faithful rendering of this work.

J. G. CUPPLES, Boston, will be the publisher of a collection of about a score of sonnets and lyrics by the late Henry Bernard Carpenter, selected by James Jeffrey Roche, who preludes them by a study of the life and character of his old friend. The book will bear the title "A Poet's Last Songs." All the proceeds after paying for manufacture will go direct to Mrs. Carpenter.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will publish on May 9, "A Book o' Nine Tales," with Interludes by Arlo Bates, author of "A Lad's Love," "Albrecht," etc.; "A Question of Love," a story of Swiss life, translated from the French of T. Combe, by Annie R. Ramsey; "A Violin Obligo," and other stories, by Margaret Crosby; and "London of To-Day," an illustrated handbook of the season 1891, by Charles Eyre Pascoe, with additional text and illustrations.

ESTES & LAURIAT are making extensive improvements in their store, 301 to 305 Washington Street, and are fitting up the space formerly occupied by their publishing, subscription and wholesale departments with shelves, upon which they propose to display their old and rare books. The Washington Street store will thus be wholly devoted to the retail trade, including the furnishing of libraries, and the departments removed from it will find accommodation at the Estes Press Building, 301-305 Summer Street.

THE DUNLAP SOCIETY expects to issue this year a supplementary volume of Mr. William Winter's "Brief Chronicles," which will include an essay on the late Lawrence Barrett. Mr. William L. Keese is also preparing for the Society a memoir of the "Private Life of William E. Burton," to contain many interesting letters. Both of these, and a third volume not yet announced, will be illustrated. Mr. William Carey has succeeded Mr. Brander Matthews as Secretary, and his address is No. 33 East Seventeenth Street, New York.

GROSS & DELBRIDGE, Chicago, will publish June 15 next a new (sixth) edition of Dr. A. C. Cowperthwaite's "Text-Book of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, analytical and comparative." The most important new feature of this edition will be the omission of the brief "therapeutic range," and the substitution in its place of a complete résumé of the clinical uses of the drug, which, while comparatively brief, will cover the entire range of therapeutic action, together with the chief symptomatic drug indications in all important diseased states.

J. E. GARRATT & Co., London, have just issued a reprint of a curious and scarce pamphlet entitled "The Four Kings of Canada: being a succinct account of the four Indian princes lately arrived from North America, with a particular description of their country, their strange and remarkable religion, feasts, marriages, etc., with several other extraordinary things worthy of observation, as to the natural or curious productions, beauty or fertility of that part of the world." The four princes were Te Ye Neen Ho Ga Prow, Saga Yean Qua Prab Ton, Elow Ob Kaom and Oh Nee Yeath Ton No Prow, who went to England with Col. Nicholson, Governor of Maryland, to request the assistance of the Queen of Great Britain "to drive the French out from among them." The pamphlet was first printed by John Baker in 1710.

THE International Academy of Volapük is now completing the normal grammar of the "universal language." It will be at once translated and published simultaneously in fourteen languages: French, English, Russian, German, Danish, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, Hungarian, Roumanian, Dutch, Flemish, Swedish and Japanese. The Academy of Volapük, founded in 1887 by the Munich Congress, and definitely established at the Paris Congress of 1889, is composed at present of thirty-five members, representing eighteen nationalities. The American members are Colonel Charles E. Sprague, of New York city; F. W. Mitchell, of Cambridge, Mass., and Lieutenant M. W. Wood, U. S. A., of Port Randall, Dakota. The publication of this normal grammar is designed to put an end to certain dissensions, "apparent," it is said, "rather than real," which now exist among the adherents of Volapük.

THE memoirs of Jennie Lind were published in London on April 25. They are edited by Canon Nollard and Rockstre from letters, documents and diaries belonging to her husband. The work comprises two very interesting volumes, which give her history up to the time of her marriage. The first chapter explains that the public is entitled to know only the artistic career of the singer, and not her domestic and private life. It appears that early in life she had a strong antipathy to a dramatic career. Writing to her father in 1842 she expressed the desire that God would save her from being obliged to sing on the stage. During her whole life there was a gradual increase of religious feeling, which doubtless induced her early retirement from the stage, although not through puritanical motives. The work includes accounts of the singer written by the Queen and Madame Schuman, and gives the cadenzas which she employed and her correspondence with Mendelssohn. A concise footnote gives an account of Jenny Lind's chief public appearances after her fateful journey to America, and with this the biography ends.

WORD comes from Paris that Littré's great dictionary of the French language is "threatened with a serious rival." Messrs. Delagrave, the publishers, have begun the issue, in parts, of what is called a "Dictionnaire Général de la Langue Française," by Messrs. Adolphe Hatzfeld, Arsène Darmesteter and Antoine Thomas. The first named is a professor at the Lycée

Louis-le-Grand, and the others are professors at the Paris Faculty of Letters. In collaboration with them are a large number of learned writers whose names are set forth in the preface. The work has been in progress for twenty years, and their aim is said to have been "not only to give definitions, examples and etymologies, but to trace by successive quotations from writers at different periods of literary history the changes of form or meaning—often very curious—which different words have undergone." The compilers acknowledge their obligations to the labors of Littré, but they have access to a mass of valuable information which was not to be had in Littré's lifetime. Four parts of the new work, bringing it down to "Brou," have already appeared.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm name the word [Cash].

JUST READY:

The Co-operative Index to Periodicals for 1890.

This work is a key to the contents of nearly one hundred representative magazines and periodicals published in the English language in the United States and Great Britain. It has been prepared by W. I. Fletcher, of Amherst College (the editor of Poole's Index), who has had the co-operation of nearly forty members of the American Library Association.

To the literary worker its value can hardly be overestimated; to the specialist in any branch of science or letters it is indispensable, since it places within his immediate reach many of the latest fruits of labor in the same field; to every one who desires to be well informed it furnishes the means of making the most effective use of his time; and to the bookseller it is of the greatest practical value, as it enables him to look up at once any inquiries for magazine articles, no matter how the question is asked.

Now issued as an annual, the index to the whole year being in one alphabet, by title of article or subject, supplemented by an author index, the work has reached its most complete stage of development.

The price has been fixed at $2.50 in half morocco, $2.00 in paper.

"No more important historical work has appeared in the last decade."—Nation.

The Founding of the German Empire.

VOLUME III.

Based chiefly on Prussian State Documents, by HEINRICH VON SYBEL. Translated by Marshall Livingston Perrin, assisted by Gamaliel Bradford, Jr. Vol. III. 478 pages, with portrait of Von Moltke. 8vo, gilt top, $2.00; half morocco, $3.00. To be completed in 5 volumes.

The motto that marks the spirit of the third volume of Professor Von Sybel's great history is this: "He who sows the wind shall reap the whirlwind." The volume is almost wholly occupied with the dramatic events that occurred between 1848, when King Christian of Denmark—he who had so recklessly sowed the wind—died, and 1864, when the preliminaries of peace between Denmark and Germany were signed. In those days a great cloud of dust obscured the so-called Schleswig-Holstein question. Professor Von Sybel shows how simple the question really was, and in his most lucid and brilliant style he pictures the various exciting episodes of the Danish war. It is one of the most enthralling histories ever penned, and greatly enhances the value of the whole work.

WILL PUBLISH SATURDAY, MAY 9:

The American Revolution.

By JOHN FISKE. With Plans of Battles, and a new Steel Portrait of Washington from a miniature never before reproduced. 2 vols., crown 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

Readers of American history are to be congratulated on the opportunity of tracing the causes and course of the Revolution in Mr. Fiske's luminous narrative. This work gives a full and symmetrical statement of the principles involved in the Revolution, a complete history of the conditions and progress and facts of the long struggle; it portrays vividly the conspicuous figures in Congress and in the field, and it is so impartial, so clear, and so graphic that its value and its fascination are equal and of the highest order.

Fourteen to One.

By ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS. 16mo, $1.25.

Fourteen admirable stories, among which are "Jack the Fisherman," one of the most impressive and pathetic temperance stories ever told, and "The Madonna of the Tubs," which has already enjoyed a very wide reading. The book will be a most welcome addition to the summer's good literature.

Col. Carter of Cartersville.

By F. HOPKINSON SMITH. With illustrations. 16mo, $1.25.

Colonel Carter is a fine specimen of one type of the Virginia gentlemen of the passing generation. He is exquisitely courteous, high-minded, recklessly hospitable, with a vivid financial imagination. Other typical Southern gentlemen and a charming aunt figure in the story; also Chad, a faithful negro servant. Mr. Smith tells the story with great spirit and skill, and the illustrations supplement it admirably.

Balaam and His Master, and Other Stories.

By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, author of "Nights with Uncle Remus," "Mingo, and Other Sketches in Black and White." 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

A charming summer book. Everybody knows the charm of Mr. Harris' narration, and the unsurpassed felicity with which he uses the dialect proper to the characters.

Otto the Knight, and Other Stories.

By OCTAVE THANET, author of "Knitters in the Sun," etc. 16mo, $1.25.

Ten capital stories which have within the last few years appeared in the leading magazines. They are thoroughly interesting in subject, are told with great vigor and effectiveness, and prove Mr. Stoddard's remark, that "the gifts of Octave Thanet are among the greatest which the storyteller can possess."

A Girl Graduate.

A Novel, by CELIA PARKER WOOLLEY. Riverside Paper Series. 50 cents.

"Thoroughly excellent from beginning to end. . . . Its whole fabric is sound, sweet, and helpful to the core, with plenty of humor and breeziness, and a fine charm of its own."—Boston Transcript.
